M-APPS CLUB (2016-2017)

M-Apps Club was launched as a rigid platform to nurture young minds and bring out their cognitive capabilities in order to expose them to the real world through developing mobile Applications which takes a quick peek into the current and upcoming generations.

Mobile application development is a term used to denote the act or process by which software is developed for mobile devices, such as personal digital assistants, enterprise digital assistants or mobile phones. Mobile apps power over 80 percent of the world's population and represents an incredible opportunity to make an impact both in your community and on the world. The department of Information Technology is pioneering an M_APPS CLUB for all Sri Sai Ram Engineering College students. The M-Apps club of our college had organized a "Training program for Mobile Application Development" on 15.02.2017. The aim of this program is to teach the students to develop a mobile application and then to follow up their development process until they come up with a productive final application. This training program had been divided into two sessions. Totally, 100 students of IT,CSE,ECE and E&I departments took part in this training program.
